When things don't go to suit you,
And the world seems upside down,
Don't waste your time in fretting,
But drive away that frown;
Since life is oft perplexing,
'Tis much the wisest plan
To bear all trials 'rravely,
And smile whene'er you can.

Why should you dread to morrow

And thus despoil to-day? For when you borrow trou! '; You always have to pay.
It is a good o'.! maxim,
Which should be often preached—
Don't cross the bridge before you
Until the bridge is reached.

GRANDPA'S SOLILOOUY.

It wasn't so when I was young,
We used plain language then;
We didn't speak of "them galoots,"
When meaning boys and men.

An impure man, young or old, is a plague spot, a leper, who ought to be treated as were the lepers of old, who were banished from society.

3. To be unselfish. To care for the feelings and comfort of others. To be polite. To be just in all dealings with others. To be generous, noble and manly. This will include a genuine reverence for the aged and things sacred.

4. To be self-reliant and self-helpful, even from early, childhood. To be in-When speaking of the nice hand-write Of Joe, or Tom, or Bill, We did it plain—we didn't say "He slings a nasty quill." Then when we met a good old friend, We hadn't lately seen. We greeted him—but didn't say, "Hello, you old sardine."

even from early childhood. To be industrious always, and self-supporting at the earliest proper age. Teach them that all honest work is honorable, and that an incorporation of the control of the contro idle, useless life of dependence on others is disgraceful.

When a boy has learned these four things; when he has made these ideas a part of his being, however young he may be, however poor, or however rich, he has learned some of the most important he ought to know when he becomes a man. With these four properly mas-tered, it will be easy to find all the rest.

> DAVID NAVARO, THE FAT BOY .-The Rochester Union thus describes this overgrown American youth: "He was born in Rochelle, Ill., seventeen years ago. At the time of his birth he weighed but eight pounds, and continued to be a small child until he was six years add when all of a suchlar he heare. old, when all of a sudden he began to grow, and at seven he weighed eighty pounds. On his eighth birthday he weighed 112 pounds, and continued gradually to increase, till on his eleventh birthday he weighed 212 pounds. The next year he increased in weight to the tune of 255 pounds, and weighed when twelve years old he was found to kick twelve years old he was found to kick the beam at 325 pounds. In his thir-teenth year he suffered severely from typhoid fever, which reduced him some-what in flesh; but on recovering from this disease he soon regained what he had lost and made up time at a rapid rate, and on his last and seventeenth birthday and on his last and seventeenth birthday he weighed 635 pounds. This was last winter, and it is probable, judging from past experience, that this avoirdupois has increased slightly since then. His health is perfectly good as a general thing, and his flesh, instead of being flabby, is quite solid to the touch, his arm, which measures twenty-four inches round the biceps, being like a bar of iron. His apparently sole complaint is that the apparently sole complaint is that the doors of the houses are too small for him.

Before retiring at night on such occasions, there was always confession and forgiveness, and the culprit would become more careful in the future. Our tempers and dispositions became gradually many and dispositions became gradually many the stocking.

we are simple enough to believe that we have better children because of our little agreement. Under such a contract, religiously kept, no ill-natured children will be reared, and no boys will find the streets and bar-rooms more pleasant than home. To make a good wife or a good husband requires the co-operation of both.

The "Candy Stew."

Tremember hearing a female servant blown up by were caster after one of these origins, and though somewhat blunted against the laugh to somewhat blunted against the laugh to somewhat blunted against the laugh to size of the negro character by daily contact with them, her answer struck no as so Indicrous that I noted it down at the time, and reproduce it verbatim. The excuse was that she was late in the morning because size had had ber dress torn off in a "big fuss" that had terminated the evening's enjoyment:

"Twas at brother Manse's, at a candy."

A lowa man, learning that he could not live many days, willed his property, amounting to $12,000, to a man and woman who had been friendly to him. Be kind to the rich.

—A widower had five grown daughtes, who wouldn't let him take a second wife. He gave up the wife, but bought a savage dog and now won't allow a man to cross his door-sill. If he can't marry, the girls shan't, he says.

—A mong the peculiarities of courting in Texas is that the "young feller" is occasionally asked to step outside the lows and hold an apple or potato for the girl's brothers to shoot at, and it is considered highly unsociable not to comply. It is equally note-worthy that the well-to do young suitor never gets hit.

A SILVER HALF-DOLLAR'S RETURN,
-Some twenty-five years ago David P.
Texter, residing on the Massillon road, had in his possession a silver half-dol-lar made in the year 1828, and that being his natal year he cut his name on it and thought he would retain it as a relic. After several years, however, he paid it out one day by mistake, along with other money, and for twenty years it took its course. Last Saturday he sent his little daughter to Massillion on an errand, and upon her return home she gave him some change, and with it was the identical half-dollar with his name cut on it. Vermifuge.

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and leadencolored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs long the lower eye-lid; the nose is irtated, swells, and sometimes ble ds; swelling of the upper lip; occasional neadache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of forgiveness, and the culiprit would become more careful in the future. Our tempers and dispositions became gradually more and more congenial; so that after a few years we became one in reality, as the marital ceremony had pronounced us encomminally. In thinking back, we find that for more than twenty years our little agreement has been unbroken, and there has been no occasion for confession or forgiveness. In business we have had our adversity and prosperity and success. We have raised's family of children, and now have our grandchildren about us; we are simple enough to believe that we have better children because of our little agreement. The boys got mad sometimes and fit;

We spoke of kicks and blows;
But now they "whack him on the snoot,
And "paste him on the nose."

Once, when a youth was turned away From her he held most dear, He walked off on his feet—but now He "crawls off on his ear."

Of death we spoke in language plain,
That no one did perplex.
But in these days one doesn't die—
He "passes in his checks."

It's rather sad the children now

The children bowed to strangers once, It is no longer so— The little girls, as well as boys. Now greet you with "hello Oh! give me back the good old days
When both the old and young
Conversed in plain, old-fashioned ways,
And slang was never slung.

Married Experience.

I married my wife about thirty-five years ago. The ceremony was performed about 7 o'clock in the morning. Before retiring that evening we had a taik with each other, and the result has sweetened our entire lives. We agreed with each other that each should be watchful, each other that each should be watchful, careful, never by act or word, to hurt the feelings of the other. We were both young, both hot-tempered, both positive in our likes and dislikes, and both somewhat exacting and inflexible—just the material for a life of conjugal warfare. Well, for a few years we found it hard work to always live by our agreement. Occasionally (not often) a word or look would slip off the tongue or face before it could be caught or suppressed; we never

We used to dance when I was young, And used to call it so; But now they don't—they only "sling The light fantastic toe."

We praised a man of common sense;
"His judgment's good," we said;
But now they say, "Well, that old plum
Has got a level head."

Are learning all such talk;
They've learned to "chin" instead of chat,
And "waltz" instead of walk. To little Harry yesterday—
My grandchild, aged two—
I said, "You love grandpa?" said he:
"You bet your boots I do."

It acts directly upon the liver, restoring it when diseased to its normal condition; and in regulating the activity of this great gland every other organ of the system is benefited. In Blood Diseases it has no equal as a purifier. It improves digestion, and assists nature to eliminate all impurities from the system; and while it is the cheapest medicine in the market, it is also superior to all known remedies. While it is more effectual than Blue Mass, it is mild and perfectly safe, containing nothing that can in the slightest degree injure the system. It does not sicken or give pain; neither does it weaken the patient, nor leave the system constipated, as do most other medicines.

It Cures Liver Complaint, Dysaltent, nor leave the system constipated, as do most other medicines.
